The Importance of Christian Education

The purpose of Christian education is to tell God's story about living in His Kingdom, and preparing hearts, hands and minds for service. God reveals to us that He is our Lord, the creator of all things. Throughout the Biblical story, God makes clear to us that sin has completely impacted His perfect creation, yet God continues to demonstrate His grace. He promises that Christ will return again and return the harmony that was lost in creation. All are invited to enter His Kingdom.

Living in the Kingdom enables us to grow in faith. Day to day experiences that affect our lives give us the opportunity to nurture faith. Children's experiences, their joys and sorrows, shape their lives. Christian schools take these experiences and fit them into God's story.

Basic Principles of Christian Education

Acknowledging that Scriptures, in instructing us of God, creation, and ourselves contain basic principles authoritative and relevant for education, we hold that:

1. The authority and responsibility for educating children resides in the parents or guardians of the children. Parents may seek help from those who can competently carry out this God-given parental right.
2. The primary aim of a Christian parent in securing the education of their child should be to give her a Christ-centered education, that is:

- To teach the child God's plan of salvation through Jesus Christ;
- To direct and develop the individual's God-given abilities and interests.
- That he be instructed in the fear of God's name so that he may know how to live to God's glory.

Therefore, the Word of God must be the all-pervading force in the entire educational process and program.

1. Christian parents, when seeking help in the education of their children, should seek those individuals and institutions that can provide a Christian education for the student.
2. The responsibility for maintaining such institutions rests on the entire Christian Community.

Aims and Purpose of CWCS

Since an admission policy should be designed within the framework of the aim and purpose of the Christian school, we state, in brief, what it is:

1. To make the child aware that she is an image bearer of God and that she stands in relationship to God, self, others, and creation, so that she may be prepared for meaningful participation in society.
2. To provide wholesome learning opportunities so that the children can recognize and develop their God-given talents, learn to apply these talents, and extend their interests.
3. To give basic instruction as required by the Department of Education. All subjects shall be taught in the light of God's Word.
4. To lead the children towards willing obedience to God and the authority of His Word and, therefore, encourage a concern and respect for Government and others, a desire to give of themselves, honesty and integrity, and helping themselves find the joy and peace of a Christian commitment.
5. To give the children a greater awareness and understanding of the secular and Christian communities, and guide them, with the help of the Holy Spirit, to understand that all of life is directed by God's Word.

Three Pillars of ACSI

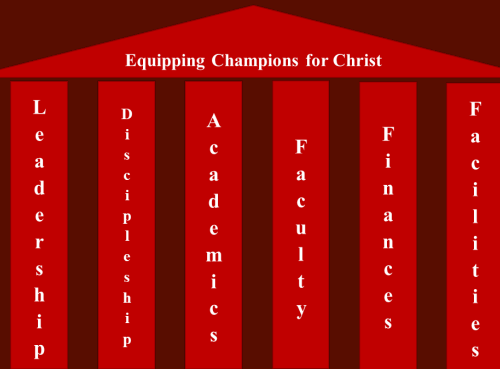

ADVANCING – Leading Christ-centered education toward excellence and flourishing

ACCESS – Making Christ-centered education available and obtainable

ADVOCACY – Promoting and protecting Christ-centered education for today and tomorrow

These pillars will allow ACSI and CWCS to remain laser-focused on promoting Kingdom education around the world.

CWCS’s Foundational Elements

Christ Centered Worldview

How can you help support these pillars of success?

CWCS Becomes an Association of Christian School International Member School

During the 2021-2022 school year, CWCS school board approved a motion for the school to join the Association of Christian Schools International (ACSI). ACSI is the premier school accreditation organization for Christian schools. ACSI was founded in 1978 and has a vision of being the leading organization that promotes Christian education and provides training and resources to Christian schools and Christian educators.

CWCS has served the Montrose community since 1981 and from its inception has sought to promote Christian education to our community. CWCS has always encouraged its students to be exceptional learner and the school holds academic development of its students as a high priority. However, the time has come for CWCS to join an organization that shares our values toward Christian education and can help the school continue to provide the highest level of education possible.

CWCSs partnership with ACSI will allow the school to seek school accreditation. While isn’t required for private Christian schools in Colorado, accreditation helps verify that CWCS as an institution meets or exceeds minimum quality standards of education. To this end, ACSI will help CWCS maintain and develop

- As a school that contributes to the public good through effective teaching and learning that are biblically sound, academically rigorous, and socially engaged; and
- As educators who embody a biblical worldview, engage in transformational teaching and disciplining and embrace personal and professional growth.

This is a very exciting time for CWCS and we look forward to seeing what God has in store for our school. Please continue to prayerfully consider CWCSs efforts toward accreditation.
